CBFO Employees Help Locally in Annual Feds Feed Families Effort

CARLSBAD, N.M., September 2, 2014 -- U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) Environmental Management Carlsbad Field Office (CBFO) Manager Joe Franco is shown with some donations contributed to the annual Feds Feed Families campaign as supported by CBFO employees.

The CBFO has responsibility for the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant (WIPP) and the National Transuranic Program.

Since the campaign began in 2009, the DOE, working in conjunction with other federal agencies, supports the effort to combat hunger nationwide through its employees' donations of food items, which benefit families across America. In the U.S., it's estimated that one in six Americans don't have access to enough food to sustain a healthy life. Last year, DOE collected over 213,000 pounds of food. Contributions from CBFO employees are provided to local area food banks.
