

Meet the Presenter...

Dr. Amy Gaffney is a staff scientist in the Nuclear and Chemical Sciences Division at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. Her research focuses on the use of radiochronometry as a signature of the origin and history of nuclear material. Dr. Gaffney is engaged in collaborations on the development of analytical methods for radiochronometry with several international partners. She also mentors graduate student interns through the Glenn T. Seaborg Institute at LLNL. Through her service at LLNL, she has earned a Department of Energy Secretarial Honor Award and a DOE Office of Science Outstanding Mentor Award. Dr. Gaffney's research is presented in over 30 peer-reviewed scientific publications. Dr. Gaffney received her Bachelor's degree in Geology from The Colorado College, and her M.S. and Ph.D. in Geological Sciences from the University of Washington. She held postdoctoral appointments at the University of New Mexico and LLNL prior to joining LLNL as a staff member in 2009.
